Teigen's daughter Luna also made a guest appearance. "When you're a celebrity child, what I've noticed is there's a lot of doting that happens," Teigen said. "We try to have everyone around them make sure they show manners ... we never want them to be selfish or spoiled!"

About 15,000 women from around the world filled Pier 94 in New York City for day two of the second Play/Ground festival from San Francisco-based media and technology company Popsugar Inc. that featured fitness classes, pulse and spirituality readings from The Yinova Center, crystal healing and a series of panel discussions. There was even a special rock-out performance from the cast of the upcoming Broadway musical Jagged Little Pill, inspired by Alanis Morissette's album, which is set to hit Broadway this fall.
